Subject: Latest GTMO detainee decision

UNCLASSIFIED

the inquiry to FBI OPR and/or the OIG;

- The "Special Inquiry" conducted by the FBI Inspection Division regarding the state of knowledge of any FBI employee regarding abuse of detainees at Guantanamo Bay and all internal FBI communications reflecting or related to any discussion of whether to refer matters arising from the inquiry to FBI OPR and/or the OIG; and

- Any inquiry about any FBI employee who may have knowledge of prisoner abuse by Special Forces personnel in Afghanistan.

Obviously, OGC may not have many of the responsive documents or may only have copies of documents which may have already been provided to the OIG through other avenues. We are coordinating with the Inspection Division and FOIA sections to determine what has already been provided.

In the interim, each Unit Chief is instructed to appoint a unit POC and provide his/her name and number to [redacted] by email. Each OGC employee is instructed to search for, identify, and preserve all possibly responsive "documents and materials" even if such materials are mere copies produced by other FBI divisions or government agencies. In this context, the phrase "documents and other materials" should be given its widest possible interpretation to include email, memos, EC's, drafts, and so forth. Employees finding responsive material should arrange it chronologically, index it by title and date, make and retain a copy, and provide it to the unit POC with a cover recording their name, unit, and telephone number. Employees should not withhold any responsive materials because it is thought to be privileged, classified, proprietary, or otherwise sensitive. Rather, such materials must be included and provided to the unit POC. Employees, however, may attach separate pages to such materials setting forth such concerns and supporting rationale.

Employees who fail to locate any responsive material after diligent search shall provide the unit POC a writing to that effect. The POC shall preserve such notices together with any responsive materials.
